Abstract

Educational Inclusion is an issue on the international policy, not only because it seeks to ensure that all people, regardless of their status, race or religion, have the same educational rights and opportunities, but also from this, eradicate discrimination and allow a more just and equitable society.

The historical review of the emergence of the Educational Inclusion of people with disabilities is one of the core points that allows to recognize the theoretical and political advances that have allowed the evolution of the subject reflected in the social and educational changes, where the disability was something had to be hidden by to be something abnormal, until the awareness that they are part of society and have the same opportunity to educate, develop and insert themselves in society as any other person.

Conceptual precisions provide the historical evolution of the terms that have been used and that account for the paradigm shift reflected in a new ideology regarding the look of difference and abnormality by the look of diversity and inclusion.

The present work aims to combine a historical and conceptual review of the Educational Inclusion of people with disabilities that will form a brief frame of reference to understand the current conditions of Educational Inclusion in the Mexican context.

Key Words: Educational Inclusion, Historical Review, Conceptual Review, Mexican Context.

Las precisiones conceptuales, aportan la evolución histórica de los términos que han sido usados y que dan cuenta del cambio de paradigma reflejado en una nueva ideología respecto a la mirada de la diferencia y la anormalidad por la mirada de la diversidad e inclusión.

El presente trabajo, tiene como objetivo conjugar una revisión histórica y conceptual de la Inclusión Educativa de personas con discapacidad que conformen un breve marco de referencia para entender las condiciones actuales de la Inclusión Educativa en el contexto mexicano.
